THE HISTORY

It was born of an experience where she was asked to paint a sunset for an ocean beach cottage. The weather was overcast the entire time but she started the painting expecting to see it. What then occurred took her by surprise. As she painted, the family members started to describe how the sky looked and guided her in completing the painting. The sun never appeared but the painting was made regardless!

As she reflected on the event, she realized that bringing many voices into the decision-making would provide a challenge and a truly unique piece of artwork. It would also be fun!

Each group has the opportunity to make decisions by individual or by committee. It is desired that every person would have the opportunity to give their input making it a one-of-a-kind piece of art.
